GLOBAL CHALLENGES TO DEMOCRACY

LES DEFIS MONDIAUX DE LA DEMOCRATIE

Summer University for Democracy 2009

“Global challenges to democracy”

6 - 10 July 2009

Strasbourg

After the success of the first three Summer Universities for Democracy (2006, 2007 and 2008) organised by the Council of Europe in Strasbourg for its Network of Schools of Political Studies, this event has become a major meeting point for young leaders from the public sectors of the “new Europe” to debate, exchange views and attempt to reply to the concerns of our time.

The Summer University for Democracy benefits from the support of the European Union, the French Government and the local authorities of Alsace and Strasbourg, and could develop into a more extensive event, on an international scale, comparable to the Davos World Economic Forum.

Within the framework of co-operation between the Organisation Internationale de la Francophonie (OIF) and the Council of Europe, the 2009 Summer University for the first time welcomes participants from Africa, whose presence illustrates the growing interest that the Network of Schools of Political Studies generates in Europe and beyond.

Following the conclusions of the meeting of the Directors of the Network of the Schools of Political Studies of the Council of Europe, held in Strasbourg on 13 October 2008, the 2009 Summer University will focus on the impact of contemporary challenges to democratic values, human rights and the rule of law, as promoted by the Council of Europe since its creation in 1949.

Global challenges to democracy impose new responsibilities on political leaders which will enable them to reclaim their place and their legitimacy in areas where they have gradually lost control over the past two decades. International finance, energy, corruption and organised crime are some of those areas that extensively escape political power and which urgently deserve their involvement to provide the answers expected by people all over the world.

The purpose of the 2009 Summer University is to analyse and identify ways in which political leaders, civil society activists, journalists and business leaders should work together to meet the challenges of our time.

Université d'été de la démocratie 2009

« Les défis mondiaux de la démocratie »

6 - 10 juillet 2009
Strasbourg

Après le succès des trois premières éditions (2006, 2007, 2008) de l'université d'été de la démocratie organisée par le Conseil de l'Europe à Strasbourg pour son réseau d'écoles d'études politiques, cet événement est devenu un rendez-vous majeur pour les jeunes responsables des secteurs publics de la « nouvelle Europe » pour débattre, échanger et tenter de répondre aux interrogations de notre temps.

L'Université d'été de la démocratie bénéficie du soutien de l'Union européenne, du gouvernement français, des autorités locales alsaciennes et strasbourgeoises, et pourrait évoluer vers un événement plus large, de portée internationale, comparable au forum économique mondial de Davos.

L'Université d'été 2009 accueille pour la première fois des participants d'Afrique dans le cadre de la coopération entre l'Organisation Internationale de la Francophonie (OIF) et le Conseil de l'Europe dont la présence témoigne de l'intérêt croissant que suscite le réseau des écoles d'études politiques en Europe et au-delà.

Suite aux conclusions de la réunion des directeurs des écoles d'études politiques du Conseil de l'Europe réunis à Strasbourg le 13 octobre 2008, l'Université d'été 2009 se concentrera sur les conséquences des défis contemporains sur les valeurs de démocratie, de droits de l'Homme et d'Etat de droit tels qu'ils sont défendus par le Conseil de l'Europe depuis sa création en 1949.

Les défis globaux imposent de nouvelles responsabilités aux responsables politiques pour leur permettre de reprendre toute leur place et toute leur légitimité dans des domaines dont ils ont peu à peu perdu le contrôle au cours des deux dernières décennies. La finance internationale, l'énergie, la corruption, le crime organisé sont quelques uns des secteurs qui échappent largement au pouvoir politique et qui méritent d'urgence qu'ils s'engagent pour porter les remèdes attendus par les populations du monde entier.

L'objectif de l'Université d'été 2009 est d'analyser et d'identifier les moyens par lesquels les responsables politiques, les activistes de la société civile, les professionnels des médias et les dirigeants économiques devront travailler ensemble pour relever les défis de notre temps.
